- If the work is being submitted via a representative, it is their responsibility to ensure that they only submit art for which the artist can claim full copyright for
- We will only accept applicants via the application form - we cannot accept applications sent via email

Shortlisted artists:

If your work has been selected please use these guidelines for delivery of work:

Delivering Work (by post/courier)

- The cost to deliver work to LEVEL is the responsibility of the artist.
- Deliveries via courier/post will be accepted from 19 June from 9am to 5pm, Monday to Friday
- Artwork must arrive no later than 1 July 2023
- LEVEL Centre staff will check the artwork on arrival to check that no damage has happened in transit. Should work arrive damaged, we will send confirmation of this to the sender as soon as possible for them to liaise with their courier/postal service. LEVEL accepts no responsibility for damage of work during transit - it is the responsibility of the artist to insure their work.

Delivering Work (in person)

- In person deliveries are accepted from 19 June from 9am to 5pm, Monday to Friday
- There will be a drop off opportunity on Saturday 1 July 9am - 5pm
- Artwork must arrive no later than 1 July 2023

- If work arrives later than the 1 July 2023 then there is no guarantee that work can be displayed in the exhibition
- During delivery the Artist/responsible person will unpackage all artworks at LEVEL Centre, where images will be taken of the work to capture its condition.
- The Artist/responsible person will sign a condition report after all artworks are unpackaged.
